2013 NATIONAL PUBLIC OPINION SURVEY

Field dates: September 17 – October 13, 2013

Prepared by:

The Environics Institute for Survey Research

Banner-Question Key

This detailed set of statistical tables shows survey results for the total general population and also by various subgroups of interest. For this table set there are five “banners” of subgroups, drawn from questions in the survey. The results have also been tested for significant differences within these subgroups. The statistical tests undertaken are an independent T-Test for means and independent Z-Test for percentages. The following key shows the questions used to create the banner subgroups and also what groups have been tested for significant differences in each of the banners.

In the tables that follow, upper case letters under the percentages indicate subgroup differences that are significant at the 95% level.

Q4E. Some people say [ROTATE] the greatest threat to our environment comes from industry, which produces chemicals and waste that threaten our air, water and soil. Other people say [ROTATE] the greatest threat to our environment comes from consumers, who buy, use and dispose of the products that industry produces, and have certain lifestyle expectations. Which of these views is closer to your own?

Q11C. Some people believe the best way to help economically disadvantaged people is to provide them with something called a “guaranteed annual income.” This would involve every Canadian receiving a specific amount of money from the government each year, which would then be “clawed back” with every dollar of income people earn. Such a program is intended to ensure everyone has enough money for the basic necessities, and would replace other forms of economic assistance, like welfare and unemployment insurance.

Would you favour or oppose a guaranteed annual income policy for Canadians, to replace the current economic assistance programs?

Q11C. Some people believe the best way to help economically disadvantaged people is to provide them with something called a “guaranteed annual income.” This would involve every Canadian receiving a specific amount of money from the government each year, which would then be “clawed back” with every dollar of income people earn. Such a program is intended to ensure everyone has enough money for the basic necessities, and would replace other forms of economic assistance, like welfare and unemployment insurance.

Would you favour or oppose a guaranteed annual income policy for Canadians, to replace the current economic assistance programs?

Q19C. In previous generations, Canadian governments signed numerous treaties with the country's First Nations, but in many cases has not honoured the terms of these treaties, with respect to providing land, resource rights and other benefits that were promised at the time.

Do you believe the current Canadian government does, or does not, have a moral responsibility to fully honour existing treaties with the country's First Nations People, regardless of what this might cost?

Q25W. I would now like you to imagine the following scenario: A small African country has descended into civil war, with several thousand civilians at risk of death. An international military mission has been proposed to restore peace in this country {to be led by the United States// to be led by Britain and France// to be led by the United Nations// no text], and Canada has been asked to contribute 300 troops.

Would you strongly support, somewhat support, somewhat oppose or strongly oppose Canada participating in this type of mission?

Q25WD. I would now like you to imagine the following scenario: A small African country has descended into civil war, with several thousand civilians at risk of death. An international military mission has been proposed to restore peace in this country and Canada has been asked to contribute 300 troops.

Would you strongly support, somewhat support, somewhat oppose or strongly oppose Canada participating in this type of mission?

Subsample: No other leader mentioned
